Impact of Welfare Schemes in Andhra Pradesh

Project Report

Introduction

Welfare state, concept of government in which the state or a well-established network of social institutions play a key role in the protection and promotion of the economic and social well-being of citizens. It is based on the principles like equality of opportunity, equitable distribution of wealth, and public responsibility for those unable to avail themselves of the minimal provisions for a good life. The purpose of government social welfare programmes is to enhance the lives of people. This will be accomplished through offering top-notch health care and education, expanding agricultural and related industries, helping artisans and helping people involved in various traditional professions. The welfare state also usually includes public provision of basic education, health services, and housing (in some cases at low cost or without charge).

The present Government of Andhra Pradesh under the leadership of Chief minister Sri Y.S. Jagan Mohana Reddy has come up with an elaborate model of governance comprised of 9 broad welfare schemes called the 'NAVARATNALU'. Navaratnalu is a Concept coined by the Government to improve the delivery systems and improve the quality of the Governance in the state. It is designed to improve the living standards of the people. These nine large welfare programs plan to offer benefits worth a minimum of Rs.1lakh to 5lakh per year to various sections of A.P people like the poor, students, children, women, farmers, laborers, old, disabled, etc. covering various sectors like health, education, agriculture, irrigation, employment and so on. "Nava Ratnalu (nine jewels) programme taken up by the chief minister was devised to prioritize welfare of all sections of people, particularly the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, BCs, EBCs and minorities to increase their per capita income through these initiatives.
